
LAC STE. ANNE COUNTY ISSUES UPDATE REGARDING ADMINISTRATION BUILDING STRUCTURE ISSUES

Sangudo, Alberta, Friday, August 19, 2022 – Lac Ste. Anne County continues to work towards resolving the Administration Building structural issues.

The feasibility of solution options is proceeding, based on structural investigations to date. The long-term options will be considered with the goals of ensuring that the interests of the County residents and ratepayers are addressed, and they have a quality building to support the important services the County delivers.

We also remain focussed on ensuring that in the interim the building remains safe and appropriate mitigation measures are taken.

To protect the County's interests, the lawsuit against the parties involved in the management, design, and construction of the Administration Building is ongoing. Litigation steps are expected to continue throughout 2022 and into 2023. Based on the advice of the County's legal counsel handling the lawsuit, limited information can be shared during the litigation process. Unfortunately, elected officials and staff are not able to provide any comments or additional information at this time.

Lac Ste. Anne County Council and Administration continue to sincerely thank ratepayers for their understanding as we work to bring this matter to conclusion.
